General Information

- Maintenance and Support: Perpetual licenses do not expire and include free maintenance and support for the first year after purchase. After the first year, the user can pay an annual maintenance fee to retain access to free software updates and technical support. This fee is optional and does not renew automatically. If the user does not renew their maintenance for some period and chooses to renew at a later date, we will charge for the period that was not covered at the current list price.
- Enterprise Licenses: Enterprise licenses are available to companies where the license is administered to an unlimited number of users within a single company. The license file will show the name and email of the primary end-user(s) at the licensed company.
- Trial Licenses: We do not provide ALAMO trial licenses. For new customers wishing to try out ALAMO, we recommend purchasing a 1-month license. After your 1-month license expires, we are happy to apply the amount paid for your initial license to your next purchase of either a perpetual or annual license.
- Third-Party Distribution: These licenses prohibit distribution to third parties. For those wishing to obtain a distribution license, please email us at sales@minlp.com.

- Delivery: You will receive your license file via e-mail. You can download the software from our website.
- ALAMO EULA: The ALAMO End-User License Agreement governs the use of the software and is also included in the software distribution.
- Ordering: To order a ALAMO license, please email us at sales@minlp.com for electronic payment information. We accept credit card, wire transfer, and purchase order.
